Durri Tropic

ANDRE Romain, FERRO Noah, DURVILLE Enzo, SOARES Enzo, MAMADY THIBAUD Léo, POTIN JONOT Pierre

SUMARRY

1.

- Context
- Brand identity
- Product segmentation

2.

- Benchmark
- Target audience
- Communication strategy

3.

- Communication channels
- Field actions
- Budget
- Evaluation

Context

In today's fast-evolving drink market, our new company, Duri Tropic is launching a new alcohol-free drink designed to reach a wide and international audience. Our product stands out from the rest, indeed, it gives an energy boost that's both healthy and adapted to daily life. The brand is built around the slogan "The taste of risk" ("Le goût du risque"), which challenges all kinds of people around the age of 18 and 35 to enjoy new flavours while also being transparent about our natural composition.
Duri Tropic provides an alternative to traditional energy drinks by mixing energy boost, good nutrition, and concentration to help urban people to stay dynamic during an effort or in their everyday lives. While the durian fruit is often rejected due to its reputation, our juice is designed to be completely odorless to make sure that it can be drink in public spaces without making it awkward.

Brand identity

The choice of brand and mockup of made shows an exotic side to highlight the natural taste of the fruit without any added chemical products or sugar. We chose a vibrant color palette to have a better visibility and representation of energy. This palette includes cyan (#1dfff8) for freshness, pink (#ff2795) for creativity, and yellow (#fff200) for happiness.
Our logo includes these colours with hibiscus to symbolize naturality and tropical origins of the drink. For typography, we used the "Margin" font for titles because it has thick and round letters that reflects the bold presence of our flavour. We also have the "Alegreia Sans" font for paragraphs in order to have a good reading experience regarding our ingredients and nutritional benefits.

Product segmentation

Duri Tropic is not a single product, but three different juice option that are suitable for different needs :

- Duri Classic, our "main" version, gives a perfect balance of an energy boost, helping people stay active throughout the day.
- Duri Intense gives you a natural boost for physical activities. By being transparent with our composition, we allow the consumers to choose an energy drink that's good for their health.
- Duri Light is inspired by the relaxation that tea can give you, and will focus on giving you a gentler boost to focus on tasks and for mental clarity during work sessions.

Benchmark

We have analysed several rivals and competitors on three international markets.
In the USA, one of our main competitors is “Celsius”, which focuses on fitness performance, and “Olipop”, which has a strong social media presence based on bell being and original flavours.

- In Japan, competitors like “Iyoshi Cola” try to attract urban workers with their design choice, while “Chill Out” targets mental health with minimalist packaging.
- In France, brands like “Lemonaid” and “Starbucks” sell healthy drinks and fruit energy drinks.

Duri Tropic differentiates itself from its competitors by offering to these customers an affordable energy lifestyle that is both healthy, transparent, intended for productivity throuhout the day rather than just physical performance.

Target audience

Our target audience consists of all kinds of people around the age of 18 and 35 who live in big cities and would be interested in healthier drinks rather than sodas. We have developed three personas to establish a strategy.

- In France, we target Thomas Legrand, a 29 year old history teacher from Marseille who’s very health-conscious and values eco-responsible packaging.
- In the USA, we focus on Jake Miller, a 24 year old carpenter from Los Angeles who is a regular consumer of energy drinks to boost performance during fitness sessions.
- In Japan, we target Sato Kenta, a 32 year old influencer from Tokyo who’s interested in digital trends and “instagrammable” packaging. He’s very concerned about strong odours in public spaces, making Duri Tropic's odorless juice a good solution for him.

Communication strategy

Our communication strategy is adapted so as to reach these three markets with their specific cultures in mind.

- In France, our main focus is nutrition and quality, where we want to highlight nutritional benefits and the eco-responsible mode of consumption.
- In the USA, the focus shifts to virality and lifestyle in order to create buzz and break the concerns about the durian's strong odour.
- In Japan, we target aestetics and curiosity by marketing the drink as an affordable “luxury” product with a design that people will want to share on social media.

By using our slogan (“The taste of risk”), we make sure that the brand remains appealing to consumers.

Communication channels

To make sure we achieve our goals, we'll use different communication channels, including social media and physical advertisements.TikTok and Instagram are our preferred platforms for short video content, while our YouTube channel will have longer videos explaining the product's benefits.
In France, we'll collaborate with different lifestyle influencers such as "Amixem" and "Tibo Inshape" in France, and "Naomi Watanabe" in Japan to increase our visibility.
In the USA, the "#DuriChallenge" will make people record themselves drinking Duri Tropic before performing a physical performance in order to create buzz. The top three videos across the two platforms will win a place for the 2026 NBA Finals.
In Japan, we'll print colourful posters to display in metro and train stations, and on digital screens so that workers are exposed to the brand everyday.

Field actions

We plan to set up field actions in big cities so that customers can discover our new drink through direct experience. For example, in France, we'll organize a big campus tour involving around 300 stands over a month. These stands will be designed with our vibrant colours to attract students naturally through free tasting. Each stand will stay for two days per university in order to create word of mouth among students. This field action is very important in order to reach our target audience of young people who are looking for a drink that's both healthy and energetic.

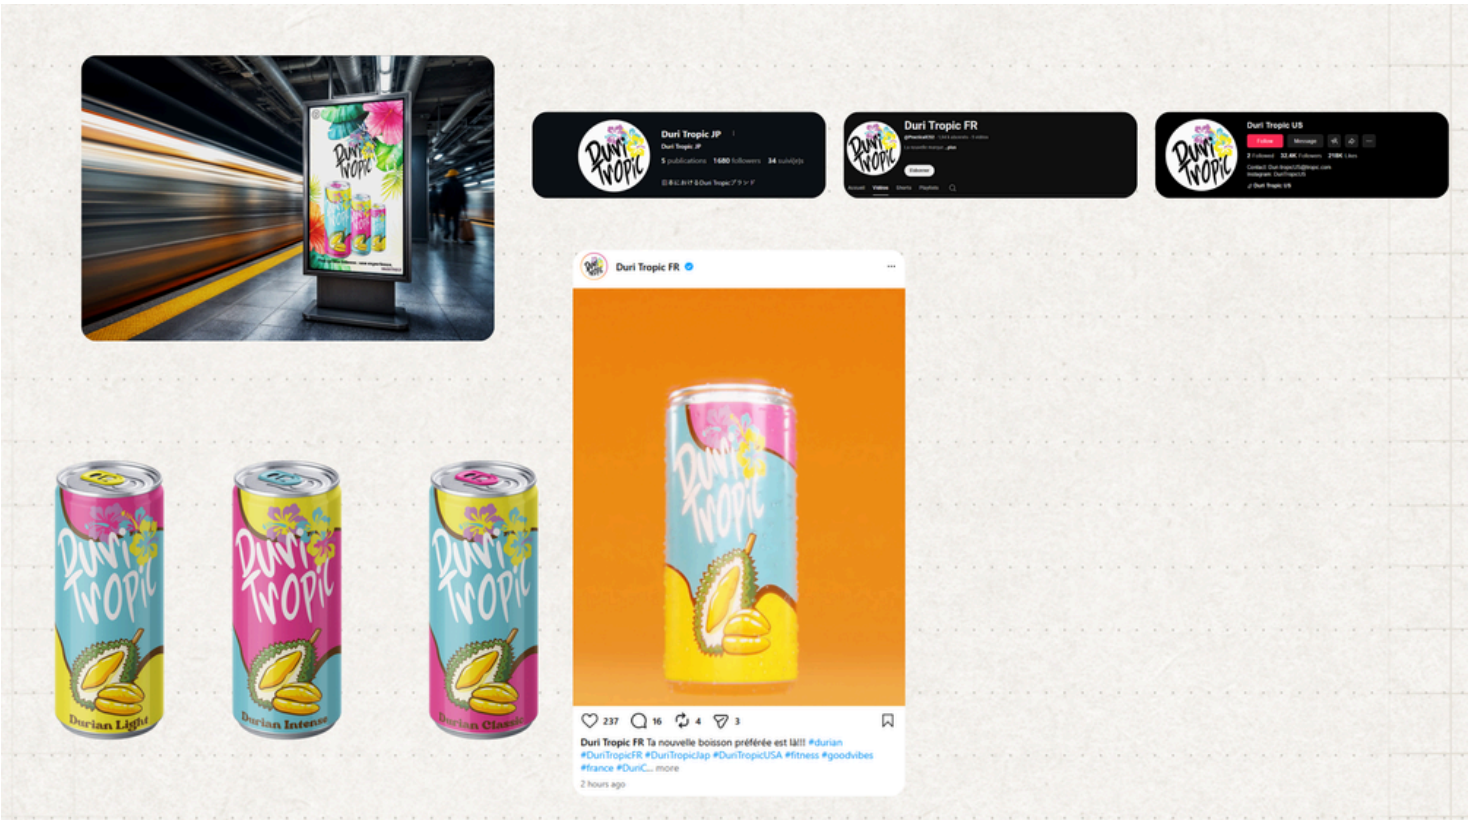
Budget

The total budget for this plan is 1 000 000€, including 750 000€ for marketing. Our costs for production are at 0,15€ per unit while logistics are at 0,10€ per unit; with a recommended retail price of 1,99€ to appeal to health conscious individuals. We estimate a turnover of 675,000€ for the initial launch phase.
After that, we will evaluate our actions with KPIs, such as the number of likes, shares, and UGC generated by the "#DuriChallenge", and the number of buyers at our campus stands.

Evaluation

Our final goal is to make our brand into a global leader for healthy drinks. By achieving our annual sales objective, we will prove that Duri Tropic is a good alternative in a crowded market. We will continue to check return on investment so that we can make campus tours to other countries like the USA and Japan in the following year. We believe that being fully transparent about our composition will empower consumers to stay loyal to Duri Tropic.

Content is no longer available



Jake Miller

Carpenter

Male | 24 years old | Los Angeles

PROFILE

- 24 years old, lives in Los Angeles.
- Passionnate about fitness and extreme sports.
- Regularely consumes energy drinks to boost his performances.

EXPECTATIONS

- A fast acting, intense, and all natural energy boost.
- A strong brand that can compete with big companies in the USA.

NEEDS

- To boost his physical performances and his daily productivity.
- A brand that cares about the environment and ethical shopping.

WORRIES

- Products that don't really deliver an energy boost.
- The presence of added sugars or chemicals that could be bad to his health.

Thomas Legrand

History teacher

Male | 29 years old | Marseille

PROFILE

- 29 years old, lives in Marseille.
- Prioritizes both physical and mental well-being.
- Very selective about ingredient quality and product origins.

EXPECTATIONS

- A healthy drink with a lot of vitamins.
- Clear information regarding the health benefits of the durian fruit.

NEEDS

- To find a healthy drink that reflects his personal values.
- To drink responsibly, making choices that are good for him and for the planet.

WORRIES

- Worried about a strong taste that might ruins the product's natural feeling.
- Concerned about the use of non-recyclable packaging.

Sato Kenta

Influencer

Male | 32 years old | Tokyo

PROFILE

- 32 years old, lives in Tokyo.
- Always on top of viral trends.
- Very active on social medias like Tiktok and Instagram.
- Sensitive to brand aesthetics and post-worthy content.

EXPECTATIONS

- A vibrant, flashy, and very "instagrammable" packaging.
- Needs a unique product to stand out on social media.

NEEDS

- To discover new exotic flavors to help him create original content.
- To look for unique products he can share to his audience to create new trends.

WORRIES

- That the brand feels too traditional or boring to interest his followers.
- Concerned about the smell of the durian that could make it awkward to drink in public or at the office.

Margin

ABCDEFGHIJKLMNOPQRSTUV

WXYZabcdefghijklmnopqrstuv

wxyz1234567890

Alegreia Sans

ABCDEFGHIJKLMNOPQRSTUV

WXYZabcdefghijklmnopqrstuv

wxyz1234567890

Duri Tropic

Duri Tropic

#1dfff8 #ff2795 #fff200